NEW DELHI: Reliance Communications on Wednesday said it added over 11 million new subscribers during the quarter ended March 31, 2009, and about 3 million additions in March alone. The company has achieved a 113% quarter-on-quarter growth in subscriber additions, the telecom company said in a statement. Reliance Communications had reported 5.3 million new subscriber additions during the quarter ended December 2008. "The overwhelming customer response to our recently launched nationwide GSM services has enabled us to bag 26% market share and experience over a 113% growth in quarterly net additions. We are confident of further enhancing our leadership position through a series of consumer-centric initiatives that we will launch in the days ahead," said RCOM's president for Wireless Business SP Shukla.
